Why Not Tell the Truth?

These are the days when democratic newspapers are filled with diatribes against Ralph Cameron for disfranchising 7,000 voters of the state of Arizona.

And democratic speakers—presumably men of intelligence, are doing the same sort of thing.

They point to the enabling act for which, it would seem, Mr. Cameron is solely responsible.

And they seem to forget that if Mr. Cameron is the only being on earth responsible for that enabling act, he is also the only being on earth who can claim a particle of credit for statehood.

But about this "disfranchisement" business.

The enabling act was approved June 20, 1910. And under the terms of its provisions men who had not lived in the territory a year next preceding the date of the election of delegates to the constitutional convention, and men who have become of age since that date, are barred from voting at the coming election.

It is said 7,000 will be disfranchised, and that is probably true. But what is the extent of Mr. Cameron's responsibility?

The constitutional convention finished its work almost a year ago. When the enabling act was passed everybody supposed that statehood would come almost immediately, that a constitution would be sent to Congress and it would be approved, and that that would be the end of it.

And if that program had gone through there would have been no such thing as disfranchisement.

But let it be recalled that last November, while the constitutional convention was in the midst of its work, a democratic congress was elected.

And let it be recalled that the session of congress last winter was the short session—it died on the fourth of March.

The ratification election was held on the ninth of February and the result of the election was certified to Washington according to law, reaching there March third, the day before adjournment. On and after twelve o'clock of the following day the Congress elected the preceding November was in power. That was a heavily democratic house, with a senate that was a toss up.

That democratic congress met in a month. The statehood matter was considered times without number.
The enabling act was discussed over and over and over again, and it was amended in more than one particular.

Then, why didn't the democratic representatives and the democratic and insurgent republicans in the senate amend the enabling act to prevent this disfranchisement?

What were Champ Clark and Mr.
Flood and Senator LaFollette and the other patron saints of human freedom doing all that time?

Did Ralph Cameron, alone and single handed, throw the whole aggregation to the floor of the chamber, hog tie and gag the whole lot of them, and drive through the disfranchisement measure over their prostrate forms?

The truth of the matter is that Ralph Cameron is about as responsible for this disfranchisement business as is the Sultan of Sulu.

And if the democratic papers and the democratic speakers are honest about it they will "come across" with an apology, either for their malice or their ignorance.

While they are about it probably they would do well to apologize for both.

TRIO SPOKE AT THEATRE

of speeches Governor Kibbey introduced the Canora quartet, Messrs.
Harry Madden, H. C. Darrough, "Bill" Carson and Walter Hayt, which rendered a number of campaign songs filled with allusions to state, congressional and county candidates which were well received.

Governor Kibbey in introducing Ralph Cameron referred to the fact that the democrats were kept busy heaping criticism upon Arizona's present delegate to congress for things he did. "After all that the democrats should criticize Cameron for doing things is not so strange as it might seem," said Governor Kibbey. "It has been so long since we had a delegate in congress who did anything that the democrats were taken by surprise and their surprise has taken the form of criticism. No one ever accused Mark Smith of doing anything and as Mark Smith is their idol it is not to be wondered at that they should find fault with Cameron for not adopting Mark Smith's do nothing policy."

Referring to the charge that Cameron is responsible for the disfranchisement of thousands of voters Governor Kibbey made it clear that if the enabling act was at fault in that particular the democrats had it in their own hands to have had that fault cleared up by election ordinance No. 2 or by the Flood resolution, which Eugene Brady O'Neil has told us he wrote himself.

Ralph Cameron was warmly received as he bowed his acknowledgment of his introduction and upon the subsidence of the applause which greeted his appearance presented in his usual forceful manner his claims upon the people of Arizona for a renewal of the confidence reposed in him three years ago.

A departure from the line of argument with which the people of Maricopa county have been made more familiar during the work of fierce campaigning just closing was Mr.
Cameron's reply in stated terms to the charge made by Mark Smith that he (Cameron) had gone outside the territory to find a candidate for appointment to a judgeship in Annapolis with an inference that the father of friends of the young man had bribed him (Cameron) to do it. Mr. Cameron had had his secretary compile from his correspondence files a history of the case and showed that of seven young men named for the place and whose names were read by Mr.
Cameron from the record all of whom were Arizona boys and all of whom failed for one reason or another to qualify. The young man Stanley Wilson who had been named as an alternate and who did qualify, is the son of a man who for years was and still is a mining man in Coconino and Mohave counties, and to all interests and purposes an Arizonan though the son may have been brought up in the east as are the children of many other mining men in order to be educated, though at the time of his appointment had been with his father in Arizona for the better part of a year.

Regarding the charge that he had been bribed to make the appointment, Mr. Cameron called attention to a telegram sent to him in Washington by the boy's father, asking that Camron loan him $115 with which to pay the young man's expenses from Arizona to Annapolis to take the examination.

Mr. Cameron said the records and correspondence files in his office in the postoffice building here in Phoenix were open to the public and all interested in knowing what those files and records contained were at liberty to go to the office and inspect them.

After another politically topical song by the quartet, Governor Kibbey introduced Haval Smith as a man whose business ability and business tenacity, coupled with his intimate knowledge of Arizona's natural resources and what was needed to develop them, would materially supplement Ralph Cameron's persuasiveness in the matter of creating an interest in Arizona upon the part of the business world.

Mr. Smith devoted himself almost exclusively to a discussion of the tariff, declaring himself a believer in the protection of American producers, paying American wages and maintaining an American standard of living, against competition, for instance, with the cheap labor of Mexico.

He took up Cameron's proposed acquisition of an American port on the Gulf of Arizona, and by a presentation of facts and figures proved how valuable it would be to the people of Arizona in the matter of reducing freight rates alone.

"The democratic press and the democratic platform speakers pretend that the suggestion made by Mr. Cameron is an irresponsible dream," said Mr.
Smith. "It is anything but a dream.
Mr. Cameron has worked upon it for months, until it has reached a point where the acquisition of the necessary territory has been taken up by the departments of state of the American and Mexican governments and there is every reason to believe that its realization will be but a matter of but a very short time, if it will be followed, as it should be and will be if Mr. Cameron is elected to the United States senate."

"That the democrats decry the proposition is not to be wondered at if the many rumors are true that their congressional candidates have been marked O. K. by the transcontinental railroads for years fought the building or digging of the Panama canal, because of its effect on freight rates, and they will fight any proposition to acquire a port on the Gulf of California for the same reason."

"From the democratic press of Phoenix I learn that the 'back haul' charges now made by the railroads on freights ordered direct from the east by Arizona merchants and on which there is no actual 'back haul' from the coast, absolutely no service rendered, reach the enormous sum of $500,000 per month—$6,000,000 a year tribute to the railroads for services never performed—and it is no wonder that the railroads will do all in their power to prevent the putting through of the Cameron project, even if they have to elect democratic senators and congressmen to do it."

Mr. Smith discussed at length the danger to Arizona fruit growers, wool growers, farmers and cattlemen, should democratic senators and congressmen be sent to Washington to swell the free trade contingent in that body, and again explained his plan for the conversion of the great coal deposits of Arizona into power to be used in irrigating lands and rendering them productive.

Messrs. Mank and DePass told of their experiences, which should fit them for the offices they seek, and after a song by the quartet, John S.
Williams told why he believed Arizona should send him—a republican and a believer in republican principles —to congress.

In discussing the constitution, he told of his stand in the Benson convention for the initiative, referendum and recall eighteen months before Henry F. Ashurst or Carl Hayden had expressed themselves on these vital questions. He added, however, that he was opposed to the recall as written in the Arizona constitution, as he believed in fair play, and the recall as written in the Arizona constitution did not give the officer recalled the same measure of justice that is given the vilest criminal that walks. With dramatic effect, he pictured the operation of the recall when the enemies of a judge or any other official applied it as prescribed by the Arizona constitution, and the operation of law in the case of a sneak thief, and declared himself against that form of recall now and forever.

The congressional candidates left Phoenix at 12:30 a. m. for Yuma by special train.

JOHN IS ANGRY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—United States Senator Works, of California, addressing the National League for Medical Freedom here tonight assailed the allopathic school of medicine as seeking to form a trust to exclude all other methods of healing and particularly denounced medical examination of pupils in school pupils. His remarks were directed chiefly against the upper grades. He said he is a Christian Scientist, but is actuated solely by a desire for medical freedom and not by the hope his method of healing would supplant others.

CAR WAS LOOTED.

Atlantic Coast Line train was held up late tonight by a robber who rifled the mail bags. The robbery was within two miles of Columbia. The robber escaped.

PAROLES FOR FIVE FLORENCE CONVICTS

Granted Yesterday by the Governor on Authoritative Recommendations.

Acting in conformity with the recommendations of the territorial board of control, the superintendent of the prison and the parole clerk at the prison, Governor Richard E. Sloan yesterday signed paroles for five convicts.
All are released on condition that they make a monthly report to the parole clerk through their nearest friend and adviser, there being other and special conditions in each individual case. Recommendations for clemency are based on good conduct while in prison, and observance of prison discipline. The men paroled, and their crimes and sentences are as follows:

Frank Ross who was convicted in Pima county, of burglary in the second degree, was sentenced May 19, 1909 to serve four years.

W. C. King was convicted in Tucson of burglary in the first degree, and was sentenced October 31, 1910 to serve two and a half years. He is paroled on condition that he will go to Guaymas where he has friends.

Jesus Galabis was convicted of rape in Cochise county and sentenced to serve five years from July 4, 1909.
He will go to Magdalena, Mexico where he has friends.

John Elliott was convicted in Prescott of the crime of constructive rape and sentenced May 16, 1910 to serve five years.

Pete Visovich was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon, in Phoenix, and was sentenced May 3, 1910 to serve six years.

THE TEACHERS' ENGLISH

In some recent reminiscences of the earlier and simpler days at Wellsley, when Mr. Durant was yet living, and showing an eager and constant interest in the three hundred lively girls of his college family, Prof. Katharine Lee Bates tells a pleasant anecdote of the arrival of a new French professor, whose first appearance was at the dinner table.

She had been heralded for weeks before by Mr. Durant's joyous proclamation of her high and lovely qualities, her Huguenot descent, her traditions of martyrdom, her heroic type of piety. All eyes were straining eagerly toward the doorway, where, beside the gracious presence of Miss Howard, appeared a tall, little figure, with a dark, alert, laughing face.

The impatient warders closed the doors a shade too soon, and the stranger's little finger was caught and pinched. Then upon our instant stillness broke the cry, "O gosh! O gosh!" as with all the charm of French vivacity, the smarting finger was shaken high in the air.

Our ideas of Huguenot austerity brightened from that moment.

Mademoiselle's French and the German of a more brilliant acquisition, Prof. Carla Kenekbach, proved as admirable as her English was occasionally surprising.

One of the innumerable queer phrases attributed to professor Kenekbach related also to a pinched finger—not her own, but that of a student. It had been crushed by a falling window.
The professor wished to tell how severely the finger had been hurt.

"The poor child," she explained, compassionately. "Her window dropped upon her hand and jelled her finger to a jam."—Youth's Companion.
